Inimitable, Ives Delights His Audience

By Claude Grelling

Jocular, carnivial and, above all, inimitable, Burl Ives last Monday gambolled his way through a colorful program of songs and ballads, to the delight of a receptive audience.

Hardly a minute passed that the Knightly personality was not coming with the laughter of some twenty-six hundred people, assembled to applaud America's most popular balladeer.

Jokes Keep Interest.

The Great Balladeer's velvet reminding, almost reminded of the distant sound of a lone cowboy's song, ranged the field, mellowed and hardened with the lyrics and emotions of the individual selections. The spontaneous jokes and easy manner in the interval of the ballads and evidenced Ives' powerful charm.

Especially outstanding among the selections were the well-known, hilarious "When I Was Single," the swashbuckling "Blow Boys Lassanti" and Ives' personal "Blue Tail Fly" which ended as an encore. The program was varied and full of variety, as evidenced by the fact that the singer was called back for three encores.

Mentions Critics.

Other particularly pleasing songs were the highly melodramatic "Sodbuster" with Scotland's famous epic "Brennan on the Moor" and the humorous "I Don't Know Where I'm Going." Adding to the effect of the performance, he frequently mentioned their origins and, after a brief stopping for some story or joke with almost every one of them.

Burl Ives established himself in the minds of his audience as an artist with a contagious sense of humor as well as a full knowledge for the beauty of folklore and folksong. He presented a unique perfection that rare gift which to make folksong have the ability to make an audience feel at home. The concert was a memorable, rare combination of entertainment and education.

New Switchboard For Luther Hall To Operate Soon

Completion of the telephone switchboard is being installed in Luther Hall will result in operation sometime next week, according to Miss Ione Perry, Waverley college business manager.

System consists of a central switchboard, four lines and a connecting into Luther hall and 12 office extensions. The telephone number for any office in Luther hall will be 38 and any person in that room goes into effect, and all offices in the new administration building will be reached through the central switchboard.

Switchboard will be situated in the business manager's office and will be operated by his secretary, Miss Bonnie Hall. She will handle all calls going in and out of Luther hall.

All other buildings on campus are not affected by the new switchboard and may be reached with the present system, according to Mr. Price. Provisions are being made for this time, however, to include other campus buildings in the system as soon as the telephone company is equipped to handle the change.

"I feel that the new exchange system will give us a more efficient service and will aid the heavy telephone traffic in Luther hall," stated Mr. Price.

Dorm Plans Party

Greenman Knights will have a Christmas party Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the women's dormitory men's lounge. Mrs. Maude Schall and the Rev. Dean Kilzer, house directors, are in charge of the party.

President and Mrs. C. H. Becker and Dean and Mrs. Earnest Opperman will be special guests for the party.

'950 For '50' Starts Project

With the slogan "950 for '50," the campaign was launched this week for the collection of $950 for the new Wartburg radio station, this semester's student body project.

An entirely new system of collecting funds is being introduced by the student body project committee under the chairmanship of Walter Ruth, senior. This drive will be carried on by the individual classes, and a goal is set for each as well as for the entire student body. The campaign will last until Christmas vacation, a period of less than three weeks.

Auction Aids.

Assisting Ruth on the committee are senior class publicities, John Walker, senior; Judy Vogel, junior; Ann Wiederanders, sophomore and George Dyck, freshman. Each one is responsible for collections in his class. Also on the committee is Katherine Mueller, freshman, who is making posters.

"This committee is emphasizing the point that students are not giving their money to the radio station, but investing in it.

Countless hours of listening enjoyment will constitute the dividend," stated Ruth. "The student own, the station.

Some of the items which student investments will make possible are: juke boxes, new phonograph turntables, a tape amplifier, and parts of a transcription library.

Workers Named.

Solicitors for the campaign were appointed at the class meetings Wednesday night. During the next few days, every student will be contacted by one of these solicitors to get his pledge or contribution he wishes.

Informality Presides At All-School Party

"Strictly informal" is the slogan for next Monday Christmas program being sponsored by Kappa Phi and Phebes, according to other Kappa Phi committee heads. The party is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater.

Among the forms of entertainment on the agenda are selections by the Phi Mus, reading of Christmas poetry, group singing and Christmas carols. Numbers by the college quartet and sextet, a short address of creative and popular songs, are scheduled. Refreshments will be served at the close.

Board Recommends

Recommendation that campus organizations begin their meetings at 7:15 p.m., instead of at 7:30 p.m. was made this week by the Student activities committee through its chairman, Dorothy Jones.

This change was asked in order to schedule time for the Luther chapel, 6:45 p.m., which was adopted recently.

Ambassadors, Dates To Hear 'Messiah'

North hall Ambassadors and their dates will attend a mass at Waterloo tomorrow to hear the Messiah, to be presented at the Waterloo Municipal auditorium. Occasion is the North hall Christmas party.

After the "Messiah" they will stop at "The Cedars" near Cedar Falls for dinner and evening entertainment.

Last Wednesday evening the North hallers enjoyed a venison feed in the dining hall. The venison had been brought back from Rhinelander, Wisconsin by Hal Gleiter, junior.

Trumpet Begins Safety Appeal

Campaign for safe driving is being launched in the second issue columns of this weeks paper and in the issue of next week.

This campaign is especially important at this time because the Mutual Casualty of Illinois which insures the pages of publications, last articles and for entire campaigns in college publications.

TRUMPET editors, feeling that there is a need for safe driving consciousness among the younger drivers of the country, have selected the contest in hopes of being of some influence for safety among Wartburg student drivers.

Begun by this week's editorial, the campaign will be climaxed by special articles to appear in next week's edition.

Castle Tales To Appear Dec. 7 --- 'Better Than Ever,' Says Editor

Castle Tales, Wartburg's literary magazine, is expected to go on sale next Wednesday, Dec. 7, in Luther hall, according to announcement made by Claude Grelling, junior and editor of the publication.

Now in its second year, Castle Tales is the youngest among Wartburg student publications. It was started last year by the creative writing classes and established itself firmly by the end of the year.

'Last Two Good.'

"That the last issues were good," added Grelling, "We hope that the student's will say that this is even better. The material is varied, colorful and well written and every student should find something to like in the issue as the selections included in the magazine."

Most valuable part of this issue should be a three - act Christmas version of Wartburg's new staff play "The Old Maid," which will be inserted in every copy. Other outstanding features include short stories by Richard Bowrey, freshman, Omar Bondahl and Elwin Bergstrassen, senior, and original essays, short stories, poetry, art work and photography by students from all four classes.

Attention Added.

New attraction, included for the first time in the forthcoming issue, is a special alumni section.

Contributions by graduates and former students of Wartburg will now be considered for publication in all future editions of Castle Tales.

"Since only 500 were printed this year," concluded Grelling, "we urge students to buy their copies early. Castle Tales will be sold every Wednesday starting next year by the creative writing classes and established itself firmly by the end of the year.

The price is 50 cents per copy."

Xmas Tea Planned

Christmas tea and open house for all students will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. in the new Clement Mendo, Dec. 8, from 3 to 5 p.m. in the home of Miss Hazel May Snyder, head of the department.

Miller Tenor Soloist At Waterloo Sunday

Donald Miller, instructor in voice at Wartburg, will be tenor soloist at the Orpheus Guild presentation of Handel's "Messiah" tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. in the Waterloo Municipal auditorium.

Many Wartburg students plan to attend the annual presentation, which will feature several other soloists secured from distant cities.

Let's Settle The Score

We young people have a score to settle with the large group of older people whom we like to call "old fogies." The score to settle is one of human interest that have been lost on the highways because of carelessness and bad driving habits.

The scoreboard isn't a pleasant one to read—as it are recorded the mangled bodies and twisted wrecks which result from accidents on the highways of the nation. Every 24 hours on the average, 83 lives are lost in highway accidents. And 23 per cent of those fatal accidents involve drivers of school age. If the scoreboard were arranged in age brackets of ten years, the 16-25 group would take about twice as many deaths as any other seven-year age bracket.

Certainly we are not the worst drivers than those older than we. We are in the prime of life. We have better eyesight, better motor reactions, better stamina, better resistance to fatigue. But we don't have better judgment, or better judgment many times. We try to make up for these qualities in complete unconcern and utter daredevilry.

Why? Because it's fun to take a few chances, fun to see some other driver get a perspective in his head when he sees us coming, fun to be able to do something daring and then come back and tell the gang about it. The trouble is that too many persons DON'T come back to tell about it—they lie, instead, either on the hospital bed or beneath the freshly turned earth of a quiet country cemetery.

These statistics are not just the figments of someone's imagination nor are they casual observations. They are the results of polls, surveys, calculations considered by insurance business. Insurance company actuaries scanning and calculating this phenomenon of the highways find that the rate increase rates substantially for any car, including the family sedan, being driven at any time by anyone in this 16-25 age group.

Now maybe we at Wartburg are the exception to the rule. Perhaps we have no need to settle the score on accident. Perhaps we don't play the more spectacular motor games like "chicken," "drag race," "rotation" or "pedestrian pole" that so many high-school clubs do.

But yet, we must admit that at times we could be more careful. We like to speed and get places fast. We sometimes shut drive a mere 40 are stick-in-the-mids. And we like to show off, take the corners a little too fast, not pay too much attention to the other fellow—those that are too considerate don't have any moral backbone. And we like to get wrapped up in our driving and some of us ever like to mix drinking with driving.

In a short time many of us will be driving home for the Christmas vacation. Let's vow now to settle that score on the highway. Let's drive to have the lowest highway fatality rate of any age bracket, not the highest.

We Must Be Dynamic

I hope that my readers will permit me just this once to depart from the usual subjects of this column in order to give my attention to a problem which is presented to us on campus. Dr. Wentz was suggested to me by last Thursday's panel discussion on "Religious Life on the Campus." Perhaps I believe that the issues brought out are important enough to be of concern to every Wartburg student.

During the course of that panel discussion, the point was raised as to how Wartburg might best achieve its purposes. These specific aims of Wartburg College were listed in the issue of space, but the interested reader can find them on pages 21 and 22 of the 1948-49 catalog.

It seems to me that the most fundamental requirement for the accomplishment of these goals is a dynamic drive, a sense of urgency, for knowledge, education and Truth. One of the reasons why our activities on the campus are not so effective as they might be is that too many of us have not yet come to the realization that religion is not only a dynamic force in life and a tradition, but a workable, everyday force of life.

However, if that realization is to supersede a rabbit a living, dynamic religion be instilled with this sense of urgency, this realization of the practical practicality of religion. Furthermore, it will never make that realization entirely his own until he can make it of his own free will. There is no future in forcing religion upon anyone. The very attempt to do so creates a barrier of resentment, and compulsion defeats its own purpose.

Man's greatest heritage, the spark of divinity within him, is, in my opinion, the desire to act on a free agent. When his free will is stifled by human barriers, he builds up within him a resistance and a stubbornness which will make learning utterly impossible.

However, a student can be taught the desires to learn, a sense of urgency mentioned before can be instilled within him by reasoning and intellectual counseling. Only after the student has gained a student entirely of his own free will to the realization of greater, broader values. Compulsion and guiding principles of Christianity courses can be made so meaningful that the student will WANT to attend. When we reach that stage, we shall have accomplished the purposes of Wartburg in their highest meaning.

After spending an inspiring Thanksgiving weekend with the brethren at Concordia college, Moorhead, Minn., Omar returns with his pack full of good food and high ambitions for finishing those term papers and preparing for those end-of-the-month exams.

Though the Alpha Phi Gamma convention at Concordia was supposed to be a fraternistic one, the art of the blind pledging has moved to second place when the culinary artists moved in. First came the steak dinner—and that was rifht after receiving from a Mrs. Minnesota Thanksgiving dinner. Then came the banquet, followed by a chow mein dinner the next noon.

With at least four cups of coffee at stake every hour on each member in between, this journalist joined the throng and succumbed to the charm of our sister college.

Because of an infamous two-year reign as editor-in-chief of this publication, I am guilty of having a hand there in his search for quiet retirement. Followed the lead of the psychologist who says that it takes a year to get just to new situations, Wartburg-ites—editor and reporter alike—have the habit of seeking out this reporter by the easy conference him for an editorial in this year's papers or to give him a "scoop."

Now while all this is good fun on the pass to indulge editorial-in - chief sits back and watches the publications of the—shall we say?—retired, friendly. Because, as every visitor is true reporter, when it calls now and then to keep in touch with the more often, to give him a second hand news tip, the unhappy editor smiles a moment at the thought of having at least one visitor; then he returns to his typewriter, yellow paper, hot pencil and pate pot.

Reporter-like Bruce Thomas tries to avoid the appearance of a crusher, but everyone knows that he can call on for action. Please, dear reporter, remember that an editor may be a North baller, but forgive him he's lonely, stifled there in the quietness of a lonely news-paper office.

By the way, his name's Boyken—Bill Boyken. He answers to almost anything—W.C.B.S. (his initials), Boy Boy Gosh (because of this one), Ed (naturally), Mel (he answers when his grandmother is asleep), George (everyone answers to that), Bill (Bonnie Beardy (all North hall answers to this title) or Darling (used only by pedagogues from Tilonia).

Almost forgot to say:

Write at Concordia, Pipe Dreams found that one of the new English professors there is Eric Pfeiffer, editor of the ELYRIAN PET. Before taking over the editorship, Pfeiffer had received high-school-wide acclaim for being the only Wartburg-ite ever refused entrance into the United States because of lack of a birth certificate—he was a Canadian.

Tall, Poised, Modelesque

Emmajean Neve Queen

By Marianne Schmidt

Although outwardly poised when presented at the Bethel basketball game last week, likeable Emmajean Aardal admits the honor thrilled her, "but I was scared stiff!"

A native of Iowa, the sophomore queen was born in Ames where her father, Prof. A. A. Aardal of the physics department, taught. After her father joined the Wartburg faculty at Clinton, she moved with the college to Waverly. She proved her loyalty to the favorite freedonian of the state by defeasening corn last summer—incidentally gaining an enviable suntan.

"But it lasted only two weeks," she remembers ruefully.

Queen Is Veteran.

Tall and modelesque, Emmajean reluctantly admits to being a veteran in queen-hood. Her experience year at Waverly High she was elected Homecoming Queen and the next summer was one of five finalists in an all-state American queen contest.

A biology major, Emmajean plans to continue her courses at Wartburg for another year and "perhaps study at a Milwaukee hospital for lab technicians my senior year."

"My dream is to specialize in tropical diseases and get a job in, maybe, Panama."

The last just among this because I was elected by the "W" Club, but I do like sports." Emmajean answered when asked her taste for athletics. "I like to bowl and golf especially, but also like swimming, tennis and skiing."

Can Cook, Too.

Emmajean has a number of talents, not the least of them being her excellent cooking ability. She finds it a relaxing diversion, which she is secretary, and plays the piano with ability. It is for personal amusement only, she says.

Her taste in music varies from the Sunday symphonies of Claude Thornhill, and progressive jazz, she says, finds "exciting and different." She also likes radio murder mysteries, popular short stories and travel, with the emphasis on sight-seeing.

Ax-men Lose Two In Nebraska

(By Special Wire)

By Norm Fintel

Wartburg ended its four day basketball trip in the narrow confines of the Nebraska Wesleyan gymnasium at Lincoln 46-43 Friday evening, losing the second game of the two game excursion to Nebraska.

Thursday night the Knights lost a thriller 44-42 in a see-saw affair in which Paul Bruns dumped in 16 baskets and six free throws for 16 points and the evening's scoring honors.

In the Deane game, the score was tied six times in the first half, with the Ax-men finishing one point behind, 22-21. Early in the second half a Deane player led by Frank Schultz gave the Tigers a comfortable 44-33 lead before Jake Hoppert poured in seven points in a late period rally to pull the Knights to a 44-42 deadlock with four minutes to go.

Wartburg Knights will return to their home floor next Friday, Dec. 9, to face the Dutchmen from Central. This will be the first Iowa conference tilt for the Knights, and should let some indication of their chances in the coming conference race.

Don Erickson scored a free throw for Deane shortly afterward, though, and the Tigers were never headed the rest of the way.

In the Nebraska-Wesleyan game last night, Art Miller, Paul Bruns and Lloyd Spicer led the Knight scoring honors with 11 points each. Wesleyan's Jim Barnard, Del, led the Plainsmen with 16.

Bruns and Miller played consistently good ball for the Knights on the two-game trip, scoring 50 points between the two of them.

Knight 'B' Squad Wins Over Bellevue

Wartburg "B" squad hung an impressive 52-26 defeat on the Bellevue Lutheran Brotherhood team here Monday night. The contest, preliminary to the varsity encounter with Bethel college, proved to be closer than anticipated.

Half-time saw the Squires out in front 31-18, but after three quarters of play, their lead had been whittled to one point. Wartburg "B"s forged ahead in the final period, to score the second victor by a safe 11-point margin.

Keith Berk led the Squires' shooting with 14 points. Manning and Olsen followed with 7 each. Vladek Wartburg was the him scoring honors for Bellevue.

Wartburg Opens Season With Win Over Bethel

By Adam Meddinger

Wartburg Knights opened their 1949-50 wrestling dual meet competition with a 36-41 win over the Bethel college Indians in St. Paul, Minn., Monday evening in the Knights' gymnasium.

Coach "Ax" Lundgaard's charges, paced by Bob Schroeder, especially in the first half, as they gained early and held the lead from around the keyhole for a 37-1 period-ending score. Knights also did a fine job of rebounding under their opponents' basket.

Behind Only Once.

Bethel led the way once, that being in the opening minute of play when Jim Lindberg, heavyweight, pinned Jim Wright, 1-6, on Greenman's free throw. From then on, the Knights were never holding Bethel to three free throws in the first 10 minutes, while the Black and Gronite matmen added the scoring punch.

Veterans from last year's squad, Jim Kirby, Lloyd Spicer, Paul Bruns, Paul Olsen and "Duke" Tiekert led the way on the scoring column, being aided by some nice plays from newcomers Art Miller, transfer from Muscatine Junior college.

Build Lead Easily.

Wartburg had little difficulty in building up a substantial lead against the Red and White from the Minnesota capital city. The Knights led at half-time, 21-8, and sailed to a 30-23 lead in the second half.

From then on, Coach Bumgaard substituted freely, using his entire roster of 13 men. The Indians became close to tying in the waning minutes of the game; therefore, the score does not tell the entire story.

Jumpin' Jim Keller led the Wartburg attack with 14 points, followed by Olsen and Spicer with 7 points apiece. Bethel's Randy Greenman and Wood, potted 12 points between them for the Indians.

Wartburg placed two men on the Mythical Iowa conference all-star team, halfback Paul Bruns and end Art Miller, both seniors. Another Wartburg end, Fritz Steinhauer, junior, received honorable mention in the annual poll of Iowa newspapers.

Bruns, leading scorer for the Knights in scoring and total offense among the smaller colleges in the nation in yards gained rushing, was a standout this season in the Knights' 6-2-1 season.

Platte was also one of the few Wartburg gridders this season who played regularly on offense and defense, playing end. Quarterback Norman Fritz Steinhauer, who like Platte had also seen real possibles, showed up well in his first year of football competition at Wartburg, and also helped out in the punting department.

Rafters Soon To Echo Yells Of Wrestling Fans

By Bob Sayler

Soon the rafters of the Knights gymnasium will be echoing with the voices of frenzied Knight fans cryin', "Show him where the lights are!" "Rub his face in the mat!" "Ride him!" "Pin him!" That's right, wrestling season is here once more.

Coach Melvin Nelson will send his Iowa conference grappling hopefuls into action at the AAU tournament at Cedar Falls next Thursday, Dec. 16. A total of 16 wrestlers will represent Wartburg in a meet that will include college and YMCA teams.

With a squad of 20 men bolstered by new recruits, Coach Nelson has hopes of a fine season for the Knights. Charlie Adams, Howie Wolfgram and Jim Wagner seized top honors in last year's conference tournament. Joe Baumgartner took second place in his division last year. Ray Meier, third at the midweek of 1947-48 season, returned to the mat squad this year after being absent last year. The other returnees, a letterman is Otto Zwanziger.

26 On Squad.

The squad according to their classes is as follows:

121-lb. Jack Berk, Fred Downing, Wayne Kuetz, Wendell Schroeder

128-lb. Charlie Adams, Wendell Wilhams

136-lb. Marvin Bruss, Carl Weimer, Ronald Kruger, Cyril Landrey

145-lb. Joe Baumgartner, Clarence Brunings, Kenneth Lauer, Keith Meyer, Arnold Pytlik, Dick Pringle

Lloyd Roberts, Thomas Smrcka

165-lb. Howie Wolfgram, Norbert Mueller, Merril Fellger

175-lb. Jim Wagner

177-lb. Ray Meier, Howie Schmidt

Heavyweight. Otto Zwanziger, Alvin Bergen

Big feature on the schedule is the conference tournament, which will be staged for the Knights gymnasium, probably on the evenings of March 3 and 4. The Knights won conference crowns in two years of competition and will be gunning for their third.

Long Trips Planned.

Long trips, one to Illinois and one to Colorado, will occupy the major part of the schedule and are a big attraction to anyone interested in wrestling. Three will be added here, making Knight team has ever made.

Besides the regular schedule, there is a possibility of filling the open date with a match with either Grinnell or TC's "B" squad. Dubuque university might enter conference wrestling this year and, if so, the matchbook will be completed with that team on a home-and-away basis. Some Wartburg "B" squad matches will also probably be scheduled here, making the appearance of a new Squires

Campus Religious Life Discussed By Students At Thursday Convo

By David Geske

"Religious Life on the Christian Campus" was the subject for Thursday's student forum. Taking over the regular convo hour, the forum presented an able quintet of students debating and discussing five phases of spiritual growth on campus with the Rev. Dean Kilnrud acting as moderator.

Marlowe Schmidt, senior, articulated thought with her remarks on the Christian faculty as related to the spiritual environment of Wartburg. Personal contact and classroom philosophy in reference to Christian ethics were cited by others on the panel as important factors in a Christian faculty.

Convos Controversial.

Advancing himself as perhaps prejudiced, Bill Boyker, junior, tackled the convo controversy with frankness. He pointed to lack of interest as one factor. On point of compulsory convocations, he brought viewpoints and arguments were convo purposes and members singled out in addition to that of an inspirational student assembly.

Chapel and its part in a Christian college was analyzed by Ted Wendt, junior. That chapel is the time for the individual student was the probability he propounded.

Club Question Given.

Allan Dietert, sophomore, briefly considered religious organizations as a factor in the Christian school. A discussion was set before the professional groups and those bodies concerned with all students.

Christianity as a classroom subject was the object of expression by Kathleen Smith, junior. She theorized that inspiration should hold preeminence over information.
